

FACES OF LODO

Tim Dickson, FedEx

Tim Dickson has a face many in LoDo will recognize. He has worked with FedEx for 25 years, the past 15 years of which have been on his LoDo delivery route. Since he started delivering packages in LoDo before Coors Field was built, Tim has seen new buildings rise from parking lots and new companies move into old warehouses. But he says that he has also seen many aspects of LoDo remain constant - like the good energy he feels when he works his route. He comments that "LoDo people are inherently good, with good attitudes."

Tim's day starts at 6 am when he begins loading his truck. His route takes him through LoDo west to Platte Street, and from Speer Boulevard to Park Avenue West. It's hard work, but Tim enjoys the constant contact with his customers. He says he knows his customers better than he knows his FedEx co-workers, because he is on the streets of LoDo from 7:30 am until 6 pm or later, usually with an unforgettable smile. He tries to be positive and brighten people's days.

Tim says his job is not just about delivering packages ...it's more about customer service! "I always have to remind my engineers and managers of that," he says.
